

WHEELER JOB
TO BE FILLED
BY DECEMBER 1

Dr. A. J. Barton, of Atlanta, Chairman of Anti-Saloon League, Makes Announcement.

DEPLORES DEATH
OF DRY LEADER

Says Work Will Go On. Position May Be Split in Between Two Men, He Indicates.

A successor to Wayne B. Wheeler in Washington will be named by the national executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League of America at its next meeting in Washington, December 1, or earlier, if the league's general officers deem a special meeting necessary for this purpose, Dr. A. J. Barton, of Atlanta, chairman of the committee said Tuesday.

He made this announcement in connection with a formal statement expressing sorrow over the death of the man who for years had directed the league's activities in the national capital, but pledging there would be "no retreat" by the organization in its work.

Suggestions that the two offices Wheeler held—general counsel and legislative supervisor—might be separated and divided between two men to be selected to fill his place were met by the statement from Dr. Barton that so far as his knowledge of the situation went, sentiment within the league appeared to be in favor of such a change.

Based on Geneva Protocol.

The Polish spokesman informed the Associated Press correspondent that although his country's resolution was not yet written, it would be based on the ideas of the Geneva protocol, which Jonkheer Beelaerts van Blokland, Netherlands' foreign minister, introduced a resolution today calling for a revival of the principles of this protocol, with the serious discussion thereof, to the end that an attempt be made finally to outlaw war by filling in those dangerous gaps in the league covenant, which "unfortunately do not absolutely remove war from the world's horizon."

Despite the assertion of Sir Austen Chamberlain, British secretary, that the Polish plan for a general pact of nonaggression had been rejected, Poland appears determined to push forward her idea of proposing a general pact whereby the nations would solemnly engage themselves to undertake no war of aggression and, above all, bind themselves not to help any aggressor power which provoked war.

The committee chairman declined to say who might be chosen to succeed Wheeler, and likewise refused to comment on reports that his name had been mentioned prominently with others as a possibility for the legislative superintendency.

He did not believe, however, that a new member of the committee would be necessary to fill the post, pointing out that Wheeler's work had been taken over temporarily by Dr. F. Scott McBride and Edward B. Bumford, who was Wheeler's legal assistant.

The committee's recommendation of a successor or successors will be reported to the league's national board of directors, in whose hands the formal appointment rests.

Dr. Barton said he probably would Lorraine Given Grandmother; Fight Planned for Insurance Money.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, September 6.—Little Lorraine Snyder, 9-year-old daughter of the murdered Albert Snyder, art editor, today became a pawn in a new legal battle. Surrogate Daniel Noble of Queens county, ruled that Lorraine should henceforth be the legal ward of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Josephine Brown. The decision practically obliges the little girl to fight for the $87,000 insurance as yet unpaid on Snyder's life.

The decision, which delighted the girl's grandmother, was a legal victory for Lorraine's mother, Mrs. Ruth Snyder, under sentence of death in Sing Sing prison along with her former paramour, Henry Judd Gray, corset salesman.

Opposing the placing of Lorraine with Mrs. Brown was Warren Schneider, childless brother of the slain art.

Guests and Members Revive Old Social Feud
In Battle Over Coolidges End

Rapid City, S. D., September 6.—(United News)—Just what usually happens on Main street when the druggist's wife neglects to invite the banker's daughter to her Tuesday afternoon study class in house occurred today in the summer capital of the nation (population 50,000), when the Fortnightly club endeavored to entertain Mrs. Calvin Coolidge at a country club tea.

It seems that the Fortnightly club is not the most exclusive club in town. The Current Events club claims that distinction.

Now, when President Coolidge decided to spend his vacation here, there was a social hub-bub about what should be done in the line of tea parties at home or formal dinners.

The white house, however, ordained that there should be no teas, or what have you. The president and the first lady were on a vacation, it was explained, from formal parties in Washington.

A band of social insurgents in the Fortnightly club insisted that something should be done for Mrs. Coolidge. Mrs. Frank Hughes, president of the club, held that if the president and his wife wanted peace they should be permitted to rest. Mrs.

Netherlands Minister Proposes To Fill in "Dangerous Gaps Which Do Not Outlaw War."

Geneva, Switzerland, September 6. (AP)—A concerted attempt to revise the "Geneva protocol" stands forth as a possibility in the League of Nations' assembly tonight. Jonkheer Beelaerts van Blokland, Netherlands' foreign minister, introduced a resolution today calling for a revival of the principles of this protocol, with the serious discussion thereof, to the end that an attempt be made finally to outlaw war by filling in those dangerous gaps in the league covenant, which "unfortunately do not absolutely remove war from the world's horizon."

TAMPA MAIDEN
DISLIKES SCHOOL
SO LEAVES HOME

Tampa, Fla., September 6. (AP)—A dread of returning to school this autumn is believed to have been the main reason that led 12-year-old Edna Nesbitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Nesbitt, away from home.

She packed a small handbag four days ago and left no word as to her whereabouts, her parents told police yesterday, in appealing for aid.

The third in a series of girls who have left home, she said she had left because she didn't want to go to school. Each time she returned to her mother the Lease Cause Trouble.

The man against whom Bernstein directed the most bitter hatred escaped from the maniacal fury of the little girl from Baltimore unscathed. He is Herman Heidenreich. A few weeks ago Heidenreich wished to submit a small parcel of real estate in Sixth avenue, near 40th street. He found that one Charles M. Bernstein, of 203 North Charles street, Baltimore, owned the lease.

Heidenreich, late tonight, accompanied by his attorney, surrendered to Daniel Kert, acting captain of detectives of the Wadsworth avenue police station on Washington Heights.

Under guard at the hour of Cohen's death, detectives started at once for Bellevue hospital in hopes the lawyer could identify Bernstein as his assailant. The triple slayer later was taken to Tombs prison for interrogation.

William Briggs, an escaped convict, who was returned to Augusta Sunday after remaining in liberty for nearly 13 years following his escape from the Whitfield county chain gang, has been returned to that county, it was announced Tuesday at the state prison commission.

Briggs was serving in Augusta under the name of J. E. Fulton. He was arrested by Augusta policemen after an affray in which he slashed another man with a knife. After the fight his wife told Augusta policemen that her husband's real name was Briggs and that he was an escaped convict.

The original sentence imposed on Briggs was five years' service on the chain gang following his conviction in Fulton county on a charge of assault with intent to murder. He engaged in a shooting affray in which an Atlanta policeman was injured. Briggs was only 18 years old at that time.

RECOGNIZES HOLD-UP MAN ON CHAIN GANG

John Willie Wright, alleged notorious bootlegger who is now serving a term on the Fulton county chain gang, Tuesday faced new charges as the result of a chance visit of A. W. Watters of 121 Eighth street, N.E., to the convict camp where Wright is working.

Watters recognized Wright as one of a gang who held him up and robbed him of a $2,000 diamond, weighing 5.62 karats, on January 29, according to the solicitor general's staff. The robbery victim immediately went to the solicitor general, and on a presentation by Watters Tuesday morning to the grand jury, Wright was indicted for robbery by force.

In addition to the routine work of indicting alleged automobile thieves, the grand jury returned a true bill Tuesday against Frank Hall, negro, for stabbing four negroes: Irene Walker and Annie Lee Clayton, Mattie Hall and Jessie Lee Lathers, all of 209 Griffin street, on charges of assault with intent to murder.

John Willie Wright, alleged notorious bootlegger who is now serving a term on the Fulton county chain gang, Tuesday faced new charges as the result of a chance visit of A. W. Watters of 121 Eighth street, N.E., to the convict camp where Wright is working.

Watters recognized Wright as one of a gang who held him up and robbed him of a $2,000 diamond, weighing 5.62 karats, on January 29, according to the solicitor general's staff. The robbery victim immediately went to the solicitor general, and on a presentation by Watters Tuesday morning to the grand jury, Wright was indicted for robbery by force.

In addition to the routine work of indicting alleged automobile thieves, the grand jury returned a true bill Tuesday against Frank Hall, negro, for stabbing four negroes: Irene Walker and Annie Lee Clayton, Mattie Hall and Jessie Lee Lathers, all of 209 Griffin street, on charges of assault with intent to murder.

NOVELIST'S TRIAL WILL OPEN TODAY

Freed From U. S. Prison, Inmate Again Arrested

Rockville, Conn., September 6.—(AP)—Neither prosecution nor defense tonight would disclose lines along which they will proceed in the trial opening here tomorrow of Leonard Cline, novelist, for the murder of his friend, Wilfred Irwin Mansfield, last May 16.

State's Attorney Thomas F. Noonan spent the afternoon closeted with state policemen and others, but declared he had nothing to say on the prosecution's plans.

Four miles away in the Tolland county jail, William A. King, chief defense counsel, went over the case with Cline. He likewise refused to comment on the defense procedure.

DRY OFFICER RAIDS 9 STILL IN TWO DAYS

Nine distilleries and 2,500 gallons of beer was the two-day record of Federal Dry Officer K. M. Brock, who recently led local enforcement officers in raids on Walton county blockaders, it was learned through the prohibition administrator's office here Tuesday. None of the operators were apprehended.

ATLANTA LAWYERS TO SEEK STRONGER CRIMINAL LAWS

Strengthens of Georgia criminal laws will be one of the primary aims of the local chapter of the American Bar association, it was announced Tuesday by Edgar Watkins, Sr., on his return from the national convention of the association, held during the past week at Buffalo, N. Y.

Officers appointed at the convention to represent Georgia chapter during the coming year are as follows:

Attorney General George M. Napier, vice president, and Watkins E. Smyth, Gambrell, of Atlanta, and Dave Atkinson, of Savannah, committee charge.

Price was given a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner L. G. Ledbetter, while the removal order will have to be signed by Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley.

The case attracted considerable attention here some two years ago when Price escaped after being brought to Atlanta from Jacksonville. He was captured a few days later. This was his native state. Price had served several prison sentences prior to his commitment to the penitentiary, postoffice inspectors say.

Another released inmate of the penitentiary held Tuesday for removal was G. W. Shaw, alias Joseph R. Battens, who is a member of San Francisco authorities on charges of using the mails to defraud. Shaw was said to have operated a bogus mail order business in poultry and produce.

DEAF, DUMB ALUMNI VOTE TO MOVE SCHOOL

Removal of the Georgia School for the Deaf from Cave Springs to a more convenient location was urged in resolutions adopted at the recent four-day reunion of alumni here. The conference just closing was the first which alumni have held since 1899, and the second since the school was founded more than 80 years ago.

Religious services Sunday morning were held in sign language by Rev. S. M. Freeman, evangelist to the deaf of the North Georgia conference. On Saturday a field day was observed by the visitors, followed by a barbecue.

SLUSH INQUIRY TO KEEP BALLOTS

Chicago, September 6.—(AP)—Preservation of impounded ballots from the disputed Pennsylvania senatorial election which gave William S. Vare, republican, a majority over William B. Wilson, democrat, is the aim of the Pennsylvania campaign committee, meeting here tomorrow.

Allegheny county has requested its ballot boxes for use at an early primary election, the president of the county commissioners advising the state sergeant-at-arms that the government would be held responsible for their value of $6,444 unless they were returned.

The ballots from Allegheny county, of which Pittsburgh is a part, are among those impounded. These with others from Philadelphia and other counties were to be retained until the senate disposed of Wilson's challenge of Vare's election.

The Pennsylvania law provides that the ballots may be destroyed after the third Tuesday of September.

Churches Lined For Fight With 'Pro' Evangelists

New York, September 6.—(AP)—The World says today that professional evangelism with its highly paid stars, its expensive retinues, and its whirlwind campaigns, faces a fight for survival with the Protestant evangelical churches of the country arrayed against it.

The churches are said to be planning a battle of "visitation evangelism" for the practice which has for its present leaders such figures as Billy Sunday, Gypsy P. Smith, G. Campbell Morgan and Aimee Semple McPherson."

Visitation evangelism is described as a personal appeal based on a survey of Protestant families in a community by special committees. The cost of this method is said by its advocates to be much less than the big meetings and more fruitful of church members than the hit-and-trail methods of the latter.

The "revolution against professional evangelism" which the world says is centered in the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, is reported to have had its origin in the east and to have spread until this fall and next spring visitation evangelism campaigns are to be conducted in New York City, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Boston, San Francisco, Albany, Harrisburg, Pa., Portland, Ore., and a score of other cities.

MONROE RETIRED ALMOST BANKRUPT, GRAYSON WRITES

Philadelphia, Pa., September 6.—After serving his country and continually for 50 years, James Monroe retired from the presidency with practically no means of support, writes Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson in the current "Ladies' Home Journal."

Finances have been a constant source of worry to many of the presidents. Admiral Grayson further says, Thomas Jefferson, in his old age, became seriously involved financially. John Quincy Adams bought a billiard table for his son out of the money appropriated for fitting the white house, and was so severely criticized that he finally paid for it out of his own pocket.

FLORIDA PRISON BOARD CURTAILS FARMER LIBERTY

Tallahassee, Fla., September 6.—(AP)—State prisoners must hereafter obtain permission from the board of commissioners of state institutions before being permitted to leave the state prison or camps to attend funerals of relatives, or upon other occasions, members of the board said today.

The decision of the board, expressed by resolution, was reached after receipt of a report from J. S. Blitch, superintendent of the state farm at Raiford, about the finding recently of a "short gun" in the prison dormitory, a discovery which led to the solitary confinement of four prisoners, Mark C. Powell, Charles E. Young, J. E. Burke and another named Welle.

Negro, Wanted In Madison, Ga., Fights Extradition

Chicago, September 6.—(AP)—John Kennedy, 26, negro, wanted at Madison, Ga., who successfully fought extradition here in municipal court, again avoided returning to Georgia when taken from an officer on a writ of habeas corpus.

After spending several thousand dollars in an attempt to bring the negro to trial, Deputy Sheriff J. E. Ivers said, authorities of Morgan county sent witnesses to Chicago and obtained a removal order, after the negro had been dismissed due to lack of identification.

Hearing on the writ of removal was scheduled for tomorrow.

It was alleged Kennedy assaulted Wade Davis, an oil station operator at Madison.

said they were "just like two children."

"The sheriff and his wife visited the Townsend home after the deputy sheriff had been brought home. Townsend, she said did not leave home from the time of his arrival from the hospital until he was told of the killing."

Mr. Townsend was spirited into the defense of the widow. "Not a thing," she replied sharply when asked if she ever saw anything objectionable between her husband and the sheriff's wife. They were like brother and sister she asserted. She said she knew her husband was innocent and this had enabled her to stand the trouble.

Deputy Hearing Good.
Asked about the presence of Mrs. Willis on a bed with Townsend, the wife literally snapped out her answer. "Mrs. Willis didn't have her foot up there," she snapped. "I was on the bed."

Mrs. Townsend also denied that she had ever heard anyone gossip about her husband and Mrs. Willis.

This morning court was recessed for 20 minutes while a physician treated Mrs. Willis. It was explained she had been under a doctor's care since the trial started.

Poisoned Candy Sender Eludes Police Search

Kansas City, September 6.—(AP)—Identity of the person who distributed poison candy in an apparent attempt to poison children in a Southside neighborhood is still a mystery today after police had questioned one woman in connection with the case.

The woman, who has no children, had been reported as quarreling with neighbors and chasing children from her yard. Police believed these charges responsible for the poisoning attempt, but a drug clerk who sold poison wheat to the woman said he delivered a box of the poisoned candy to a house where a Sunday school party was in progress were unable to identify her.

The drug clerk had reported he sold poison wheat to a woman and the delivery boy said the woman had given him 15 cents to deliver the candy at the party.

Three boxes of candy were found by children in the neighborhood, but parents frustrated the apparent poisoning attempts before any was eaten. Three persons who ate the candy delivered at the party became ill.

SPINNERS IN ENGLAND CUT AMERICAN USAGE

DECATUR MASONIC MEMBERS HEAR YAARAB CHANTERS

At a mass meeting Tuesday night, prior to the opening of the $60,000 debt clearance campaign, Decatur Masons and members of the Order of the Eastern Star heard the chanters of the Yaarab Temple, of Atlanta, in an entertaining program.

Scott Candler, general chairman of the campaign, presided and outlined the plans for raising of the debt clearance fund through the sale of preferred stock in the Pythagoras Masonic Temple association, holding company of the temple building.

Other speakers on the program were B. H. Burgess and W. Barnes Gibson, both stressing the necessity of a concentrated and united effort to make the campaign a complete success.

After Seven Years ...WHAT?

RECENT surveys show that 90% of the estates of more than $5,000 left by Americans is dissipated in seven to nine years after the death of their creators.

Startling—but a fact! As a prudent American, you cannot ignore the question it raises: What will your family be doing—what will they have—seven years after your death, if death comes to take you from them? The further fact that 35% of American widows are in want, and 90% of that number lack even the common comforts of life, is not reassuring. But there is one unfailing solution:

This Company will issue a life insurance policy which fixes the settlement in a series of installments instead of a lump sum. These installments can be made few or many as you prefer; or for the life of the beneficiary with reversion of the residue to her heirs. In no other way can you so absolutely secure the future of those you love. Think it over.

The Missouri State Life is a nationwide institution. In 35 years it has become 19th in size among America's 348 Legal Reserve Life insurance companies. In the last five years it has more than doubled its insurance in force. Its new business for six months of 1927 shows an increase of 45.8% over the same period in 1926.

This Company writes all forms of Life, Accident and Health, and Group Insurance. Its policies are broad in coverage and free from restrictions; and its rates, as low as consistent with security and best service, are the minimum for the Utmost in Protection.

We shall be glad to answer any question touching any form or phase of insurance—individual or corporation—in which you may be interested. Your request for information involves no obligation on your part.

COUNTY ACCEPTS SUBURB SCHOOLS

Official acceptance of the East Point and College Park school systems was voted Tuesday afternoon by the Fulton county board of education.

The two communities recently voted to enter the county school system, and the action of the county board Tuesday formally takes the city system over.

Under the conditions of the acceptance, East Point and College Park school money now on hand with the mayors and councils of the two municipalities and the city board of education, is to be paid over to the county board; all school taxes for 1927, hereafter collected by the county, are to be paid to the county board within 15 days of collection, and all other school income due and collected by the two cities is to be remitted to the county board on collection. The acceptance is conditioned only upon compliance with the resolution of the school board.

The Fulton county board also approved the county school budget for the new fiscal year, which began July 1 and ends June 30. The anticipated income is $529,687.62, while the disbursements will amount to $525,914.62, leaving an anticipated surplus of $3,773.00.

Rebuilding of the East Point negro school was authorized. The old school burned down two years ago, and the negro school at East Point is now being conducted in the col-

STEPHENSON TO BID FOR LIBERTY TODAY

Indianapolis, September 6.—(AP)—D. C. Stephenson, Indiana's most famous prisoner, will make another bid for freedom from a life term for murder tomorrow through the United States district court at South Bend.

Attorney General Arthur L. Gilhion, who will open the defense, William V. Roemer, local attorney representing Stephenson, were notified today that hearing on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus would be held tomorrow. Several days ago Judge Thomas Sieck, of the South Bend federal court, had set Thursday as the September term county grand jury. Stephenson appealed to the federal court on the contention that he was being held in violation of article four of the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution. He averred the conviction was obtained in a recent trial in 1924 for the murder of Madge Oberholzer, Indianapolis girl, to be sold because the clerk of the Marion county criminal court failed to sign the transcript and change of venue. Federal courts have jurisdiction over county courts in cases of a void judgment, it was contended.

BLUE RIBBON STEEL BEDS

The bed shown above is the "Cavalier," one of the many new Blue Ribbon Beds of Steel. This charming adaptation by Blue Ribbon craftsmen has many modern advantages, yet it preserves the intangible grace, the individuality of bedrooms of an earlier and more romantic age. Its perfect proportions lend themselves to many types of rooms. Never could the complete suite of furniture, no matter how elaborate or expensive, express your personality so well as a bedroom furnished around the "Cavalier." Each odd piece you choose can fill its definite place around this bed, and you can make the cost of your complete bedroom whatever you will.

The beauty of Blue Ribbon Beds of Steel is known wherever they have been displayed or used. But beauty is only one of the many advantages of Blue Ribbon Beds. Their steel strength and durability are as lasting as their loveliness. Their "satin-smooth," "chip-proof" finish is baked-on and hand-rubbed. This finish never grows dull, but softer and more beautiful with use.

Another great advantage of Blue Ribbon Beds is the price. Being of steel, they are made entirely (except the hand finish) on labor and cost saving machines. Their low cost brings, for the first time, authoritative beauty of design, fine workmanship and enduring quality within the reach of very modest purses.

The "Cavalier," together with many other Blue Ribbon beds, is grain finished, in Walnut or Mahogany, or finished in the exclusive Duo-chrome blends—Oriole, Moonstone, Antique Walnut, Clouded-Jade—there's an almost inexhaustible source from which to choose.

Let your plans for a new bedroom include a complete Blue Ribbon Sleep Unit—bed, mattress, spring. Choose the "Cavalier," or one of forty-nine other models, each surprisingly low in price. Select a Blue Ribbon Spring from six styles and prices. Choose one of the many Blue Ribbon Mattresses, America's best values. A JACKSON COUNTY DISGRACE.

The details of the flogging of two negroes in Jackson county, as related in dispatches, are revolting.Carried a distance of several miles from their home in automobiles the masked mob made them disrobe and then they were brutally beaten with a heavy leather thong.It is alleged the negroes—father and son—were flogged because the older had refused to heed warnings to leave the county. Before they were flogged, it is said, they were mercilessly beaten over the heads with the stocks of revolvers.The sheriff of Jackson county reports that five of the masked men were identified by the victims and that warrants have been issued and arrests will shortly be made.As the regular term of the Jackson superior court does not meet until February, more than five months hence, a special term should be called, so that the thugs may be brought to swift justice.Jackson is the home county of Georgia's governor. It has an overwhelming number of as splendid citizens as there are in Georgia. It is unthinkable that such a county should not vindicate herself from such a crime of inquisitorial barbarism.There is a law in the statutes to reach every crime. There is a penalty prescribed for every crime.The situation is, the law must be respected and the judicial system respected, or government itself falls.The mob strikes at the institutions of government, and does so from ambush, the retreat of the coward.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT.

The Hapeville city council is to be commanded for its prompt action in giving Atlanta unhampered administration of Candler field, which is now located—by a recently enacted charter amendment—entirely within the incorporated limits of that city.The city and county have already jointly spent more than $75,000 in standardizing the field, and in making of it an air port in keeping with government requirements. A great deal more has to be spent. The field will shortly be lighted.Of course if Atlanta should have lost her jurisdiction over the field,
by the recent legislative enactment,
the situation would be seriously involved.By the provisions of the resolution unanimously passed by the Hapeville council Atlanta will police the field, pave the approaches, and otherwise continue as heretofore with its uninterrupted administration.This spirit of cooperation on the part of Hapeville is worthy of emulation. It shows the harmony with which neighboring municipalities can handle affairs in which both are involved.Work can now proceed on Candler field without apprehension as to the future and it should be made one of the finest air ports in the entire south.Atlanta's geographic position will necessarily make this a great air transport center.City council and the board of commissioners can serve no better purpose than to coordinate their activities in making the field second to none.

MARCUS LOEW.

The news of the death of Marcus Loew carries genuine sorrow to a great host of Atlantans, many of whom were his warm personal friends.He had frequently visited this city, Colonel Ed Schiller, one of the leading officials in his great organization, is an Atlantan.His organization has one of the largest and finest picture and vaudeville houses in the city.Only a few months ago, as an illustration of his faith in Atlanta,
the entire frontage of the block
on which the Grand theater stands

was acquired by the Loew interests, on which plans are now being made for the erection of one of the largest and finest amusement houses in the United States. His death will probably not change in any way
these plans. His great interests were admirably organized.

Mr. Loew had acquired financial success from an humble East Side beginning, the record of which reads like a romance. His great business ability, coupled with a personal integrity that was firmly established, and known throughout America, were the contributing factors.

His early business failures brought financial losses to no one but himself.

His word was a bond, and his credit
was the best.

He found no difficulty in financing any undertaking that looked inviting to him.

One after another of the Loew show houses went up, not only in his home city of New York, but throughout the country.

He always kept his vaudeville
stage clean and wholesome.

When the great film industry
was developing so rapidly it saw
an opportunity there. At the time of his death he was, as the president of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer
corporation, one of the largest motion
picture producers in the country.

What the late Elbert H. Gary was
to industry, or what the Rockefellers
are to oil, or J. Pierpont Morgan
to banking, so was Marcus Loew to the amusement-producing
world.

He was a great man in many ways
and one of the nation's most useful citizens.

LEADERSHIP OF THE SOUTH.

Two of the most important national conventions to be held in the United States this fall are to be held in the south. It is significant.

When invitations were extended to both the American Bankers association and to the National Association of Manufacturers, the call of this great section was so strong,
with the trek of industry so irresistible, that the delegates to both conventions became enthusiastic in waiving practically a precedent to meet in some of the larger cities of the east or central west, and voted overwhelmingly to convene next in southern cities.

Both of these great conventions, with thousands of delegates, will meet in October, the bankers in Houston, and the manufacturers in Chattanooga. A large group of the latter organization's delegates will visit Atlanta following the adjournment of the convention.

There is an unmistakable nationwide interest in the south today.
Its development of great power interests, the diversity in industry,
the sure and steady concentration of textile plants adjacent to the raw product, the increasing agricultural wealth, the break-away from single crop slavery, the sensitive program of balanced production, the movement of desirable home-seekers from other sections of the country—all of these are impelling forces that keep the eyes of the whole nation focused upon this great, growing, advancing section of the United States.

And that is why the south today
is getting the great national conventions.

Standard
Clothing.

The national costume for Italian men is a suit. Massimo tacitly admits it, but promises to return to the change next year, when a big campaign will be opened. The idea of standardized clothing was not new and had already suffered several bankruptcies in the course of history.

Charles II of England, for instance, decided in 1660 to have 1660 men in an "invariable fashion." Only the British monarch, more expert in feminine matters than the Duke, ordered his innovation to cover the case of men only. Samuel Pepys, the diarist, tells of it in his "Diary," how one of the courtiers of King James II at the court of St. James, turned out uniformly dressed. It was a rather sophomore outfit and it did not please Samuel. The Charles II style, however, did not last long. Louis XIV heard of it and in order to amuse himself with it, ordered all of his courtiers of England, "to cover that the stable-boys and lackeys of Versailles should be dressed up in the new English court dress. Charles thereupon immediately abandoned his scheme."

One is liable to die of nervous prostration with so many fliers taking the air overseas and four clubs in the National League within a few games of copping the pennant.

The two Tampa newspaper men who joined the Key club, arrested and convicted and given ten days,
realized that there was a catch in it.
The key is alleged to be a whiskey.

The anarchists are talking about a world revolution just like the world hasn't been revolving ever since we can remember.

When the round-the-world fliers get back to Chicago they should be welcomed by the Zion City folk,
who claim the world is flat.

With 25 deaths from overseas flights we are asked by aviation circles to be patient. But we are more concerned over the patients.

Between flights and flights Levine manages to keep in the world's eye.

The dollar now buys as much as it did in 1914—if you have the dollar.

The president says he is behind the Mississippi valley relief program. But how far behind?

We purpose to confine our fancy flights to express elevators.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW
BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Auto

Da Fe.

An unusual spectacle in our days but certainly not uncommon in the middle ages, was seen in the big square in front of the Church of Notre Dame the other day. When the clock struck 10, several trucks arrived and piles of books were heaped on the pavement. Several gentlemen sprinkled gasoline and set fire to the lot. The two men who sprinkled were Jean Genbach and Mederic Meissin, respectively author and publisher of the sensational "Se-tant in Paris," and the books were the remaining unsold copies of this "study of life." M. Genbach, then publicly declared that he had never been converted to Catholicism following a pilgrimage to Notre Dame of the Sighs near Mont-Saint-Michel. He declared his "great grief and sorrow" to have cooperated in the modern literary movement that "corrects morale and leads away from God." After the fire, the two men went into the church where M. Genbach had arranged for a mass. Some Paris papers call it a publicity stunt and others stand in admiration before the young writer's "sincerity."

He always kept his vaudeville
stage clean and wholesome.

When the great film industry
was developing so rapidly it saw
an opportunity there. At the time
of his death he was, as the president of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer
corporation, one of the largest motion
picture producers in the country.

What the late Elbert H. Gary was
to industry, or what the Rockefellers
are to oil, or J. Pierpont Morgan
to banking, so was Marcus
world.

He was a great man in many ways
and one of the nation's most useful citizens.

Hearts
Disqualified.

Several prominent French literary men have contributed an article lately on the question whether "love is bankrupt." Most of them are convinced that our modern age has lost the art of loving. Our youth, they find, are cynical, at least it gives them a thousand reasons to be cynical and they attribute this first of all to the triumph of mechanical achievements and secondly to the war. Our age is the age of speed. New records are constantly sought. The time when a swimmer could go and serenade his lady with a guitar is long past. The young men are smooth, limber and a master locomotive finds more admirers than the lines of Venus of Milo. No sentimentality in art and no sentimentality for love.

Opening the Corral Gate.

A month and more ago President
Coolidge verified a confident prediction made in this column nearly a year ago, when it was jeered at by politicians and press as "perfectly ridiculous." The average partisan and editor just could not figure out how Coolidge, mounting the wide open opportunity to succeed himself
in another term of the presidency, but this office had sure data from which to divine the future event.

Now that the country has settled down to the administration of Coolidge, it is evident that he has no political ambition. He would go no further than to again throw up the smoke screen of his belief that "President Coolidge will be renomed and reelected." That is a shrewdly devised refuge until he can "look and listen" later on.

On the other hand, it is confidently predicted that Hughes will carry the solid east, carry New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania as he did before 1916.

It is further claimed—and the claim is credited by many influential democratic leaders—that the nomination of Hughes ahead of the meeting of the national convention, will effectively carry the democratic nomination.

On the other hand, it is confidently predicted that Hughes would carry the solid west, carry the western states
and, in fact, carry the nation.

But there is a number of them who have heretofore intimiated their availability now seem very modest and charly about galloping out to be bridled and saddled for the big race of 1928.

It has been freely assumed that the republican party is ready to succumb to the route of successively, against any democrat that can be scared up anywhere in the nation. Then, why this sudden reluctance?

The East Wants Hurts.

The professional politicians of the republican party in the east are very eager to have ex-Judge Charles Evans Hughes consent to become a candidate for the presidential nomination. And if Governor Lowden should choose to nominate him, he would be chosen. It is thought certain the latter would not suffer it to be forced upon him.

He is a prodigious and indefatigable worker. He knew no such thing as stopping or sparing himself.
His premature death is undoubtedly
due to his constant and excessive
labor; he died a martyr of the cause
of his party.

He had an ancestor who whooped up the embattled farmers at Lexington and Concord when the great revolution began; he is Buckeye born and educated as a young lawyer; is a world war hero and afterwards, a financial stabilizer; and a popular figure in the public eye.

If we cannot avoid having a republican president next term I would like him to be Dawes!

WHEELER'S PLACE
TO BE FILLED SOON

Leave today to attend funeral services
for Wheeler at Columbus, Ohio.
The board of trade and the cause of sobriety and civic right have suffered a great shock and inexpressible sorrow in the death of Wayne
B. Wheeler," he said in his statement.
But there will be no backward step in the cause of prohibition and a new and better administration will be elected.

This was opposed by Mr. Sutton and members of the board who contended that the board already has a sufficient bond fund for reconstruction of the razed structure.
It also was contended that the procedure would be illegal, but he investigated thoroughly in an effort to augment the salary sheet with the fund and a committee composed of Mr. Maddox, W. W. Gandy and Mr. Hoffman was named to report at the next meeting of the board. Another objection to the proposal was that it might complicate the payroll accounts if the board were to receive the salary sheet.

He chose to sacrifice riches and life for the good of humanity, living on a pittance in comparison with what he could easily have earned.

He was a prodigious and indefatigable worker. He knew no such thing as stopping or sparing himself.
His premature death is undoubtedly
due to his constant and excessive
labor; he died a martyr of the cause
of his party.

Dream of Bertaud Realized :: FIGHT WITH LEVINE HALTED TRIP ON COLUMBIA :: When Old Glory Takes Off

New York, September 6.—(P)—The take-off today of the monoplane Old Glory from Old Orchard, Maine, for Rome marked the realization of a long delayed dream for Lloyd Bertaud.

Bertaud early this summer seemed to have given up the idea of flying the first plane to make a non-stop flight from the United States to Europe. He had been selected by Charles A. Levine to pilot the monoplane Columbia and the Columbia was the first of the trans-Atlantic planes to be ready at the Long Island flying fields.

STORY OF SHIPS CREW CHEERS BRUNSWICK BACKERS.

Brunswick, Ga., September 6.—(P)—Before among the backers of the Brunswick-to-Brazil flight that Paul Redfern, the youthful aviator, is safe somewhere on the South American continent has been strengthened by the elaboration of the story that the monoplane was seen near the Venezuelan coast by the crew of a Norwegian ship.

Although there is a discrepancy of a day between the time officers of the Christian Krogh said they saw the airplane and natives reported seeing it flying across the Orinoco river delta, friends of Redfern believe the story is true, then Redfern, after leaving the direction of land from the steamer's officers, flew straight to Venezuela, as related by them, and reaching the coast line, continued southward. His backers believe he landed somewhere along the coast and is now in Brazil.

During the controversy with Levine, Bertaud felt that his reputation as a pilot had been questioned and called upon the chief of the New York-Cleveland air mail service to give him a testimonial. The air mail chief replied that Bertaud was one of the best fliers in the service and had carried on his work as night pilot in a way to demonstrate his ability beyond question.

The controversy with Bertaud was the first of many in which Levine became embroiled in connection with his flying activities. It recently was paralleled by the differences with Maurice Drouhin, the French pilot with whom Levine contracted to pilot the Columbia to South America.

Shortly after the Columbia had made its successful flight to Europe without Bertaud, the air mail pilot was selected by William Randolph Hearst for the Old Glory flight. He was told to select himself any co-pilot he desired and the choice fell on James D. Hill, another night flier on the Cleveland-New York air mail.

REDFERN'S FATHER MAY LEAD SEARCH

Columbia, S. C., September 6.—(P)—Dr. Frederick C. Redfern, Columbia, who flew from the Georgia coast for Brazil, has been invited to join the expedition being organized in New York to go to South America and search for Paul. Dr. Redfern has not decided as yet whether or not he will go with the searching party, but he will reach a decision probably tomorrow, following the return to Columbia during the night of Mrs. Redfern who has been visiting relatives at Rochester, N. Y.

Dr. Redfern declared today he was very much encouraged by the report from New Orleans further confirming the report published last week of the Norwegian ship Christian Krogh having seen the aviator near the coast of South America. Dr. Redfern feels confident that his son is still alive and that he is "somewhere in South America," making his way out to civilization again.

"I have been told a number of people," he said, "some of whom have written me and some of whom have spoken to me in person, that they are familiar with the country in northeast South America and they are confident that Paul could have made safe landing at many places, and that he could be hundreds of miles away from wives a cheerful farewell. No woman relative was present to speed him on his way but Payne had given him a hearty kiss. A Catholic priest had sprinkled holy water on the plane and imparted his blessing on plane and crew.

National guardsmen held back the crowd which had gathered to watch the start. Slowly at first but with rapidly gathering speed the plane rolled down the beach a mile and a half before taking the air. On the runway of seven-eights of a mile at Roosevelt field, New York, whence it had been planned to originally make the start, inability to get off the ground would have meant disaster. Here the aviator a large margin of safety and Old Glory swung out past the end of the long pleasure pier to the sea.

Full Information Lacking.

The American legation at Caracas, Venezuela, reported to the state department today that it had been unable to obtain further information about the airplane seen near the coast of Brazil. It was stated that the plane flew at a very high altitude so that none of the identification symbols or lettering on the fuselage was visible. Natives did not know whether it was a monoplane or biplane.

The German report stated that the plane was observed on Saturday afternoon, while the log of the Christian Krogh shows Redfern met the vessel on Friday afternoon following his hop-off from Glynn Isle beach here on Thursday at noon. If the dates were correct, the flight backers do not understand for transposing the two or three hundred miles between the spot where Redfern left the ship and where the craft was observed over the Orinoco, unless the monoplane was landed and took off again on some beach.

Redfern's mother was expected to arrive at the airport at 10 a. m. today at Rochester, N. Y., where she has been visiting. Dr. Redfern indicated a conference with her would determine whether he would join the expedition which expects to sail from New York soon.

MARSH'S EXPEDITION LEAVES IN FEW DAYS.

Washington, September 6.—(P)—An expedition headed by Richard Marsh, of Brooklyn, N. Y., discoverer of the "white Indians" in Panama, and in which the Smithsonian institute will participate, will leave New York within a few days to seek Paul Redfern, missing Georgia-to-Rio de Janeiro flier, Dr. Charles A. Schlesinger, acting secretary of the Smithsonian institute, informed the United News tonight.

The expedition, Wetmore said, will make headquarters at the head of the Orinoco river delta in Venezuela, from where searching parties will scour the surrounding territory.

Wetmore said the expedition is a "combined party for the search of Redfern and to make zoological study of the head of the Orinoco river delta." He said the Smithsonian institute will send one man with the party, and added that he was not yet ready to make an announcement as to who would represent the organization.

Redfern's route was to have taken him past the vicinity of the mouth of the Orinoco river, and if it was his plane which circled above a ship 20 miles off the coast of Venezuela and asked directions, he must have lost and flown off his course into the interior of the Orinoco basin. This theory is strengthened by reports from natives in the Orinoco river delta that they sighted an airplane flying at night altitude about the time Redfern's plane have been seen in the vicinity of the mouth of the river.

Subsequent reports from points in Brazil, among them Alegre, a small town on the Amazon river about 350 miles from the mouth, that an aviator had landed in the interior, have proven unfounded.

hand-packed sand of Old Orchard beach today winged her way to Ward Room. The long deferred flight began at 12:25 p. m., eastern standard time.

The toss of a coin had given James Dewitt Hill the coveted pilot's position at the start. Beside him in the cockpit was Lloyd Wilson Bertaud, who will be in charge of navigation and operation in addition to reliving Hill at the controls at intervals. Hill is not an operator. In the passenger seat was Philip A. Payne, managing editor of the New York Mirror and flight director, who represented William R. Hearst, backer of the flight.

Redfern's route was to have taken him past the vicinity of the mouth of the Orinoco river, and if it was his plane which circled above a ship 20 miles off the coast of Venezuela and asked directions, he must have lost and flown off his course into the interior of the Orinoco basin. This theory is strengthened by reports from natives in the Orinoco river delta that they sighted an airplane flying at night altitude about the time Redfern's plane have been seen in the vicinity of the mouth of the river.

The plane was headed into the southwest wind. Only after it had gained considerable altitude, it was turned on its northeastward course, so that the watchers were able to keep it in sight for 15 minutes.

Miss Payne, Mrs. Bertaud and Mrs. Callaghan strayed a few minutes into the speck in the skies vanished. Then they went back to their hotel. They planned to return to New York either tonight or tomorrow morning. Asked if they would cross the Atlantic by steamer to meet the fliers, they said: "Oh, no. We will wait right on this side for them to come back."

Uncertain of Course.

Before leaving Hill, who charted the course, was unwilling to commit himself too definitely as to just how the plane would cross the Atlantic.

He said he would have to reserve the right to change his course if conditions seemed to demand it.

Whether he would actually cross Newfoundland he did not care to predict.

It was possible, he remarked, that he might not ever come within sight of the island, as he was confident that he would keep on his course without checking it there. Either di-

BERTAUD RADIOS HIS WIFE.

Portland, Maine, September 6.—(P)—A radio message from Lloyd Bertaud, one of Old Glory's pilots, to his wife at Old Orchard was picked up at 4 o'clock, eastern standard time, by J. Brenner, chief radio officer in charge of Cape Elizabeth naval station. It read:

"The ship is heavy, making 100 miles an hour. Everything going fine. About 90 miles north of Digby, N. S."

Bertaud reported that the automatic transmitter, which had not been heard, was "running continuously now." He said there would be no further radio messages for about an hour as he was going up to take his turn at the controls which were in charge of Pilot Hill the first three and a half hours.

RADIO FROM PLANE REPORTS ALL WELL.

New York, September 6.—(P)—The first wireless message received from the Old Glory, picked up at St. John, N. B., at 2:55 p. m., eastern standard time, said "making over 100 miles an hour. All well." The message was relayed from St. John to the Independent Wireless.

OLD GLORY SIGHTED OVER NOVA SCOTIA.

CANADIAN FREIGHTER SEES PLANE OVER OCEAN.

New York, September 6.—(P)—The Canadian freighter Empress reported through Independent Wireless that it had sighted the Old Glory at 2:35 p. m., eastern standard time. The Radio Corporation of America later gave the ship's position as 10 miles off Digby, N. S.

Persons on the deck of the steamer said they were able to read the words "Old Glory" painted on the fuselage of the plane, the Radio Corporation reported.

Digby is in southwestern Nova Scotia.

BERTAUD'S PLANE SEEN ON WAY.

Monhegan, Maine, September 6.—(P)—The monoplane Old Glory was flying quite low in about an east-northeasterly direction, when it passed this island and the entrance to Penobscot bay, 12½ miles east of Old Orchard, shortly after 2 o'clock eastern daylight time.

Judge Roscoe Luke, right; Charles Butler and Miss Annie Butler, shown in the above picture will be leading figures in an interdenominational revival to begin Sunday at St. Paul Methodist church. Judge Luke is widely known as a Baptist layman, and will lead the services. Mr. Butler is a choir leader and soloist and Miss Butler is a pianist. Both are widely known throughout the south in evangelistic circles.

Judge Roscoe Luke, of Thomasville, Ga., and pianist, will have charge of the musical program during the meeting. Both Mr. Butler and Mr. Luke have been active in the work in many sections of the south, and are regarded as a decided asset to the coming meeting. Mr. Butler is a choir master, a soloist and is well known in musical circles.

"The coming meetings are not alone for Methodists or for church members," Dr. Butler said. "We are making the meetings strictly interdenominational. This fact is attested to by the fact that Judge Luke is a Baptist, and our congregation is bringing him to Atlanta to lead our services."

"Our aim is to do the biggest and best for the church as a whole, and in this desire we have been graciously assisted in our efforts, we believe, by Judge Luke, who has consented to lead the services."

"All Atlanta is invited to attend the meetings. Grant street, Grant park cars pass directly in front of the church."

Services will begin at 11 o'clock Sunday morning at the church auditorium at Grant and Park avenue, and will close with the night service Sunday, September 25.

Judge Luke has led revivals in practically all sections of the state, but this is his first venture in Atlanta, where he has been invited to speak at the St. Paul Methodist church, south, it was announced Tuesday by the Rev. Dr. B. D. Speer.

Services will begin at 11 o'clock Sunday morning at the church auditorium at Grant and Park avenue, and will close with the night service Sunday, September 25.

SIR JOHN CARLING START IS DELAYED.

Harbor Grace, N. F., September 6.—(United News)—After hours of overhauling, it was announced late today that the continuation of the trans-Atlantic plane Sir John Carling's London-Ont.-London, England, flight must be postponed until Wednesday morning.

Damage suffered by the machine when a lantern exploded in Monday night was found to be more serious than was at first thought.

It was not the explosion itself that damaged the plane. Workmen, at risk of their lives, dragged the plane from danger without first removing the tail fastenings, and strained several parts. Four of the men were burned slightly in the rescue work.

OLD GLORY SISTER SHIP OF ILL FATED RAPHAEL.

New York, September 6.—(P)—The monoplane Old Glory, which left Old Orchard, Maine, today for Rome, is a sister ship, identical in every detail, of the ill-fated St. Raphael, which disappeared while attempting the western passage with Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim and her two pilot escorts.

Hoover Promises Delta Prosperity

Vicksburg, Miss., September 6.—(P)—The full security of the Mississippi delta will be assured and its prosperity certain with the passage of flood control measures which will be at the next session of congress. Secretary Herbert Hoover said here tonight in a statement covering existing conditions in the Delta.

"The delta is making more substantial progress toward recuperation than perhaps the people close to the situation realize," Secretary Hoover said. "The pluck and fine courage of all the people of the delta, their resolution to go through and see the complete rehabilitation of this, one of the richest parts of the United States, is in itself an assurance to the ultimate outcome."

"The promised cooperation between mortgage and credit agencies in solving many of the economic difficulties, which cooperation should be still further crystallized and extended, is in itself an assurance to the ultimate outcome."

Baton Rouge, La., September 6.—(P)—Measures which would free flood-ruined parishes from taxation, would authorize the state to borrow money and provide for the payment of reparations to St. Bernard and Plaquemines parishes by the city of New Orleans, were introduced at the special session of the legislature which opened here today.

The opening session was marked by the introduction of a joint resolution memorializing President Coolidge to call an early session of congress to deal with flood relief and control.

Hurling Ace Holds Cincinnati to Only Three Hits.

Pittsburgh, September 6.—(AP) The Pittsburgh Pirates held their slender lead in the National league pennant race today by defeating Cincinnati, 5 to 0.

Ray Kremer gave proof of a complete return to form by holding the Reds to three scattered hits. Only 28 men faced the big Pirate hurler, who experienced difficulty in working back into trim again after a knee injury earlier in the season.

First base was as far as any Cincinnati runner got throughout the game. Hits by Picinich in the third and Allen in the fifth were each followed by double plays. Picinich got another scratch hit through Wright in the ninth inning but Zitzman, who ran for him, was left on first when the last out was made.

The Pirates continued their heavy hitting, off Jakey May's slants, slapping up 13 hits, four of which were long doubles, by Smith, Grantham, Wright and Traynor. In the second inning Smith's double brought in two runs and two more scores were added in the third. Grantham, who had a single and a double, and Traynor. The Pirates' fifth run was produced by successive hits by Wright and Traynor in the fifth inning.

Comorsky, Wichita outfielder, replaced Cuyler in middle field. He obtained one hit.

They Wouldn't Believe

By ROY VICKERS

On the way to Donald Bierly's house, his friend Connie Elmore, Donald's fiancee, tells her friend, Olive Weston, that Donald stands a chance of inheriting half a million from the estate of old Harrowby, a friend of Donald's father.

Olive and Connie share a flat in London. Olive is secretly in love with Donald, but since he is engaged to Connie, she is not too anxious to see him.

Sandie and Querk, solicitors handling the Harrowby estate, are crooked and plot to cheat Donald Bierly of the fortune by having a spurious heir appear whose claim is prior to Donald's. In the plot of the shooting Augustus Bierly, Donald's father, proceeds to have died when the "Titanic" sank, so that when the police come to the house he leaves Bierly to Harrowby house and there with the assistance of Querk's tool, Wade, disposes of the scene.

Donald decides to visit her old nurse, who is now caretaker of Harrowby house. "Mrs. Jones is out, but Connie finds the key and lets herself in to wait for her. She hears strange noises in the library, and going to investigate, she sees Mr. Sandie and another man kill Mr. Bierly, whom she recognized from his portrait. Rushing out of the house, Connie stumbles into Mr. Querk's office, telling him that Querk has given the signal to the murderers. Connie sees a policeman, and calling him, the three proceed to the library and Connie asks Querk to open the secret panel in the wall, where she had seen a safe. Querk refuses, but Connie, who has heard the noise again, goes to the police, where she tells her story to the police superintendent. Querk intimates that she imagined the scene and in exasperation Connie goes to see Olive, who believes her story.

Olive, who is engaged to Sandie, comes to the superintendent and presents his alibi, which the police officer accepts. The two lawyers proceed to Wade's office, where old man Turle and his son, the spurious heir, await them. The old man dies just after walk into the office, and Sandie and Querk leave by the back door.

Donald hears Connie's story and, too, believes that she imagined the scene.

INSTALLMENT XXI.

FAILURE

Olive had forgotten her demand for cushions. She sat bolt upright, waiting, listening, heard Donald go into the kitchen, say good-night to Connie, heard him leave the flat, then herself rose and went into the kitchen.

Connie was about to lift a tray. Olive came behind her and took her by both wrists.

"Connie, I've failed you," she said over her shoulder. "I've found out just nothing."

"I know," answered Connie. "I guessed that was why Donald wouldn't stay. It can't be helped. Sit down. The unnatural calm disturbed Olive. She sat down at the table and drank the tea which Connie poured for her. She studied her friend's white, drawn face and dilated eyes, and her spirits sank still farther.

"I went to Querk first," she said, "and got permission to go over to Harrowby house. I took with me Detective Inspector Rason, one of the star men at the Yard and a jolly decent chap. We drew blank, unfortunately. Then I tackled the superintendent whom you saw. He was dumb as an oyster, but I opened him all right. Next I rounded up Sandie and Wade. Then I tried to get on to Sandie, found him out, traced him to Querk's flat, where I ratted him to earth."

"What did Mr. Sandie say?" Connie asked mechanically.

"I don't like the man," said Olive. "I should love to be able to say something about him, but I must admit he was jolly decent about it."

Connie whirled upon her.

"Jolly decent!" she gasped. "That's enough, Olive. I've heard all I want to, thank you. You wouldn't say that of a man you believed in a moment."

In an instant Olive was by her side, gripping her hands.

"Hold on tight, darling! Face the facts. You had some kind of working dream—hallucination. It's nothing to put the wind up either of us. It's unconscionable, but by no means unknown."

Connie tore her hands away.

"Don't! Don't talk that maddening nonsense about hallucination! First Mr. Querk, then the superintendent, then Donald. O, I could bear it from Donald, but I thought you would stand by me!"

She wrenched herself from Olive's hands, ran to her own room, slammed and locked the door.

"She had better have her cry out," mused Olive, tried to finish her supper. Presently she tapped on Connie's door.

"Go away, please, Olive," said a voice that was a mere dull echo of Connie's.

Olive went to her own room. Before physical exhaustion dragged her into sleep, she heard Connie write about.

Throughout the night, Connie alternately sat and walked, sleepless. With the gray light of dawn, she went to her desk and began to write.

The sun was high when Police Constable Watkins, of the Rubington division, approached a taxicab waiting outside Donald Bierly's house. A taxi in the leafy retreat of Rubington at that hour was an unusual sight.

Watkins came nearer, saw that the driver was fast asleep over his wheel, and nudged him none too gently into wakefulness. The sight of others asleep when he was compelled to be awake always irritated Constable Watkins.

"Wha's matter wi' you?" demanded the taxi-man.

Mrs. Quinby Named President Of Fulton Chapter, U. D. C.

Mrs. L. D. T. Quinby was elected president of the Fulton chapter, U. D. C., at the meeting held at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Piedmont hotel.

Other officers elected at this time for the ensuing year were: Mrs. J. A. Wise, first vice president; Mrs. John R. McConnell, second vice president; Miss Cestelle McNeal, secretary; Miss Martha E. Anderson, treasurer; Mrs. W. S. Irvine, historian; Mrs. Sue L. Palmer, registrar.

Mrs. Quinby succeeds Mrs. C. L. Anderson, the efficient past president, who leaves behind her an enviable record as an executive and as a leader.

It is entirely fitting that Mrs. Quinby should be named president of one of the state's outstanding U. D. C. units, not only because of her ability and loyalty, but because of her distinguished southern ancestry, many of whom figured prominently in the Confederate cause and in the reconstruction days following the war.

She is the daughter of the late W. A. Herndon, who was a member of the Georgia legislature.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mrs. and Mrs. Greenfield left for an extended wedding trip east. Upon their return they will make their home with the groom's mother, Mrs. J. C. Greenfield, on St. Charles avenue, N. E.

NOBODY is harder on shoes than a growing child. And at no time is quality more important. For not only is it economical—but it protects growing feet.

Every type of shoe for school, dress and play will be found in Stewart's Exclusive Children's Department. We take especial care in fitting children—and the parents will especially like the moderate prices.

At the meeting Tuesdays delegates and alternates were elected to the state convention of U. D. C. to be held in October. The delegates are Mrs. E. B. Williams, Mrs. H. D. Andrew and Mrs. Hope H. Davis, the three very young social contingent.

After a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon the little folk were served refreshments from a festive table, elaborately decorated.

Mrs. Quinby was assisted in entertaining her small guests by Mrs. Willard Nutting, Miss Eppie Nutting and Mrs. Samuel Harrington.

The guests included 25 members of the very young social contingent.

HOW CAN WOMEN
KEEP WELL ENOUGH
TO GET UP SINGING?

"My mother-in-law," says Mrs. Belle Thompson, 3101 E. 44th St., East Lake, Tenn., "told me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I took six bottles of the Vegetable Compound. I could sleep and would get up in the morning singing and feeling fine. I am the mother of three children, and always after the babies came I had to take treatments, but I can truly say that this last time I have only used the Sanative Wash. It does more good than the treatments. It keeps me on my feet to care for my children and I do most of my work. I feel it my duty to let you know how both the medicines have helped me."

Another Happy Woman

"I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books you give away and began to take the medicine. After the first few bottles began to feel better and could eat better. I had found a headache. I feel like a different person. At anytime that I don't feel good than the Vegetable Compound again, as I always keep a bottle on hand. You may use this for every word is true. I will answer any letters sent to me."—Mrs. Jessie Bollerian, 611-11th St., Union City, N. J.

This dependable medicine has been in use for over fifty years.

HEAD ACTED LIKE
MERRY-GO-ROUND

"FOR quite a while I was affected with dizzy spells and everything would seem to dance before my eyes," says Mr. T. H. Bohannon, 841 E. Jefferson St., Louisville, Ky.

"Little black specks would flicker over everything I looked at. Sometimes I would feel as if the floor was going to come up and hit me in the face. At the same time I had a feeling like chills. My digestion had not been good and I had spells of constipation. Every morning I would wake up with a bad taste in my mouth.

"I got quite worried about myself. One day I was talking to one of my friends about my health. I told him how bad off I was, and that nothing was doing seemed to help me. At once he asked me, 'Have you tried Thedford's Black-Draught?' I told him that I had not, and he said: 'Well, why don't you get a package of it and begin taking it? That is what you need.'

"I did as he told me, and in a few days I noticed a decided improvement. The dizziness disappeared. I was no longer troubled by my head acting like a merry-go-round when I got up quickly. My indigestion straightened out and my appetite picked up wonderfully."

"There was two years ago. Since then I always keep Black-Draught in the house. It prevents biliousness and constipation and keeps me in good physical condition. I take a dose every now and then, just to keep my system clean. It is a splendid medicine. I have told many of my friends about it and those who have tried it think like I do."

Thedford's Black-Draught is made from pure, medicinal roots and herbs. It contains no harmful, dangerous mineral drugs.

DISABLED VETS SEEK 1,000 NEW MEMBERSIndia's Learned Man Fails To Show at Pen for Term

Colonel Dinsah P. Ghadiali, of Malaga, N. J., native of India, learned man extraordinary, was expected at the federal prison Tuesday. He did not arrive.

The colonel was due at midnight. At that time his second respite granted him by the president of the United States expired.

These were extended when his appeal from a five-year sentence and $5,000 fine, imposed two years ago in the Portland, Ore., federal court for Mann act violation, was denied by the United States supreme court.

If the president had extended another respite, authorities here have not been notified of it. Ghadiali is under a heavy bond to deliver himself here. It is believed, however, that he will be allowed several days of grace.

Among other things, Ghadiali is an author. His latest work, entitled "Railroading an American Citizen to Prison," attained a wide circulation. In it he alleges that "the author" was branded an innocent as a white slaver." Ghadiali was alleged to have transported a girl from Oregon to New Jersey. He declared that his wife and daughter were his companions on the trip.

Ghadiali's talents are said to run

The state prison commission will meet at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning to hear a petition for parole or pardon filed in behalf of E. C. Stigall, former city policeman of Atlanta, who is serving a 15-year sentence on a charge of manslaughter growing out of the killing of W. H. Hanes, a private detective of Atlanta. Notice that a protest will be filed against the granting of the application was filed by Solicitor General John A. Boykin of Fulton superior court.

According to Solicitor Boykin, the jury reached a compromise verdict in their case fixing the minimum sentence at 15 years with the understanding that the entire minimum period was to be served by the convicted man. Stigall has served nearly five years of his term.

Attorney William Schley Howard represents Stigall and a petition signed by a large number of citizens for clemency for Stigall has been filed with the commission. Solicitor General Boykin has retained the law firm of Hutcheson & Morris to oppose the application at the hearing.

Employees of the Southern railroad will be evicted at a meeting of employees of the entire system Sunday at the city auditorium, it was announced Tuesday by a committee in charge of arrangements.

Over 1,000, representing members of the executive office to the humblest workman, will be included in the gathering which will convene at 10 o'clock in the morning and continue until details of the plan are worked out.

Employees from every part of the system, from Atlanta, Washington to New Orleans and into Kentucky and other sections of the country will attend the session.

Arrangements are in charge of a committee composed of S. W. Davis, A. W. Cory and Councilman H. Turner Loehr, of the first ward.

COUNCIL TO SEEK INOCULATION OF ATLANTA DOGS

Appointment of a special committee to evolve details of an ordinance designed to control dogmen in Atlanta to have their animals inoculated to prevent possibility of the spread of rabies featured the regular semi-monthly meeting Tuesday of the sanitary committee of city council.

Dr. P. L. Moon, Alderman J. Alton Cook and Dr. John Kennedy, city health officer, were named as members of the committee.

They will form details of a scheme to enforce a proposed ordinance and report at the next meeting of the committee. Other routine matters also were considered.

Councilman Frank Reynolds, of the eighth ward, chairman, presided.

MILAN DECLARES ATLANTA WELCOMES GEORGIA POULTRY

That the Atlanta market easily absorbs higher grade poultry shipped by farmers of the state and will grow with these shipments was the statement of President of Aubrey Milan, of Green & Milan, wholesale produce firm. Mr. Milan is a member of the marketing committee of the Georgia association.

A car of poultry received by his firm last Tuesday from Stephens and Hart county raisers was the first to arrive this year, and the administration of Dr. A. Bishop, new manager of the state bureau of markets, was readily disposed of. It contained 6,000 chickens weighing 15,000 pounds and was skillfully handled that little poundage was lost, Mr. Milan said.

"This year was of finer quality than we have been receiving from Tennessee and other states," he added. "There is no trouble in marketing Georgia poultry, and cooperation on the part of producers would result in monopolization of the local market."

BEAUTY SPECIAL BRINGS ENTRANTS TO ATLANTIC CITY

Atlanta City, N. J., September 6. (AP)—Freighted with those who have been chosen by various cities and states as representative of their fairest, the beauty special bringing entrants, chaperones and officials to the annual Atlantic City beauty pageant, arrived here today.

A large crowd gathered at the station to meet the train and a band struck up "Who's That Pretty Baby?"

Miss Norma Smallwood of Tulsa, Oklahoma, Miss America, was wearing an inconspicuous fall costume and a very narrow streamer. The crowd, however, seemed to spy her instantly and cries of "Hello, Norma," ran along the lines. Immediately upon their arrival the girls were taken to a large grandstand where photographs were taken by cameras from all parts of the country.

Princess America, the Indian lass from Spokane, was a bright spot, garbed in the colorful beaded costume of buckskin and wearing moccasins.

The girls were taken to the mayor's office where they received the key to the city. The pageant was followed by the raising of the pageant flag at Park place and the board walk. They then proceeded to the annual Rotary club luncheon where they were royally received and enjoyed the elaborate program planned for them.

$50,000 LEGACY FAILS TO ENTHUSE RAGGED AESTHETE

St. Petersburg, Fla., September 6 (AP)—Rube Allyn, erstwhile St. Peters burg poet, philosopher and sportsman will not abandon his crude little home near Ruskin even though he inherits the $50,000 fortune left to one Rube B. Allyn by Mrs. Susie C. Shafer of Alliance, Ohio.

Allyn, interviewed in his self-styled Paradise on the fertile banks of the Little Manatee river, assured newspaper representatives of this today. When reporters sought him out and informed him of his inheritance he failed to register much enthusiasm.

Cable advices from Liverpool stating the Master's Spinners' federation in Manchester had strongly recommended the closing down of the mills Saturday and Mondays for eight weeks, and have been successfully carrying on this advance, but was particularly emphasized as an immediate factor.

Private cables attributed the steadiness of Liverpool, after early declines, to speculative buying, trade calling and a shortage of contracts. They reported a fair inquiry for cotton cloth from India, but said many offers were impractical.

Exports today 39,920, making 48,025 for this year's season. Port receipts, 45,535. United States port stocks, 1,119,040.

TRADERS EVEN UP

FOR CROP REPORT

New Orleans, September 6.—(P) The opening of the cotton market today was mostly on an evening up character in advance of the government report to be issued Thursday morning. Following an early gain of 24 to 26 points, prices ended off.

Servel of Delaware was conspicuous among the weak spots, falling to a new minimum of 52 cents a share, compared with a high for the year of more than $10. Lackawanna securities also slipped backward, reaching a new low price of 50¢. Some of the high-priced groups also lost ground. Safeway Stores and Tubize Silk each declined 5 points or so.

Liverpool came in better than due at first trades here showed gains of 11 to 13 points. The market continued to improve, ending with a rise aided materially by a private report which made the condition average 55.7 and indicated yield 12,038,000 bales. December eventually reached 22.91, 26 points above the previous close.

Activity and strength of Standard Investment 5s, which scored an extraordinary gain of more than 6 points to a new top price of 111, marked the active bond market.

COMMUNIST ACTIVITY CHARGED IN BOLIVIA

La Paz, Bolivia, September 6.—(AP)—Alleged proof of communist activities in South America, directed and financed by the third international of Moscow, was offered by the Bolivian foreign minister in parliament yesterday. The former documents identified Nikolai Bucharin and Zalkind, both prominently identified with Soviet Russian affairs.

Coincident with this charge came the announcement of the discovery and suppression of an attempt at another communist movement by agents of the left and the spirit of "formidable" potency.

The foreign minister's exposure was met by parliament with a vote of confidence in the government.

$300,000 COTTON MILL

PLANNED AT COMMERCE

Gotham, World's Biggest Italian City--Walker

Venice, Italy, September 6.—(AP)—Mayor James J. Walker of New York said that he was opposed to the American policy of immigration limitation. He was speaking at a luncheon given in his honor in the historic Palazzo Vecchio, by Count Orsi, podesta of Venice.

"So far as I am concerned, so long as I am mayor, every son of Italy is welcome to New York," said Mayor Walker.

Mr. Walker added that he was pleased to be a mayor of the "biggest Italian city in the world, because he thought the Italo-Americans had made one of the biggest contributions to New York's greatness. He said, however, that since arriving in Italy he could well understand Premier Mussolini's policy of protectionism.

"The country after seeing all these evidences of greatness, one can understand why Il Duce should want to keep his talent at home."

FARMER SLAIN WHILE SLEEP; GIRL WOUNDED

Commerce, Ga., September 6.—(Special)—Plans are being made to be erected a new cotton mill here to be capitalized at $300,000. All local money is capitalized at a like amount, and all of which is "home" capital. One company here has already subscribed $100,000, and it is believed that the other $200,000 will be easily procured. The committee composed of prominent business men is now engaged in a canvass to obtain the additional financing.

Paving Bonds Planned.
The city council has called an election to vote on bonds for street paving to be held October 20. The details as to the amount of bonds to be voted on has not, as yet, been perfected. There is a strong sentiment here in favor of the proposed issue.

Business Outlook Good.

The business outlook here is promising. Cotton from the new crop is beginning to come in. The crop in this territory has not been materially damaged by the boll weevil, and the opinion prevails that it will be as large, and possibly larger, than that of last year. The merchants here are anticipating the best business and the banks the best debt-paying era in several years.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS FIGURES ARE GIVEN

Washington, September 6.—(AP)—Although infantile paralysis is prevalent in certain sections of the country, the public health service does not regard the disease as unusually prevalent, but rather as a local one. It has not begun to approach the epidemic year of 1916 but that an accurate estimate of its existence this year cannot be obtained until cold weather checks the disease.
